Family Reunion.

The Walsh family held a family reunion at the residence of William Walsh on Long Branch Sunday, Sept. 4, at which nearly all the family and immediate relatives in this vicinity attended. A sumptuous dinner was served and the reunion was enjoyed by all present. Following are the names of those who attended:

Frank Walsh, of Wrigley, J. T. Linnie and John Davis, of Forest Mary and Geneva Walsh, Mrs. Tina Walsh, John Walsh and Estelle Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wells, of Malone; Miss Sally Walsh, of Lenox; Mrs. Martha and Roger Womack, of Millersburg; Mrs. John Ferguson, of Malone; Mrs. Gus Walsh, of Deland, Ill.; Mrs. Lizzie and Lillian Caskey, of Plymouth, Iowa; Frank Brown, of Irvine; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. and Mildred Whitl, Mrs. Mattie Roy, Bernice and Charles Davis, O. P., Lillian and John McKenzie, Mrs. J. W. Caskey, Mrs. W. A. Caskey, Robert, William and George Caskey, Chas. Shorer, Russell Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Johnston Lizzie Ann Johnston, Misses Moselotte and Lula Walsh, Curt Lacy and R. M. Oakley.

Were the Kittens Hatched?

Mrs. T. H. Caskey went to look after her chickens a few days ago, and taking a hen that was sitting off her nest she found under the hen six young kittens and ten eggs that had not hatched. Whether the kittens had hatched from the eggs or the hen had despaired of her eggs hatching and adopted the kittens is the question to be solved.

Will Be a Candidate.

Curran Nickell, of Pump, traveling salesman for the Ben Williamson Hardware Co., of Ashland, was in town Tuesday and told the Courier that there had been much solicitation for him to make the race for member of the Board of Education that he had decided to enter the race, and that he would probably make his announcement next week. Mr. Nickell is a man of fine ability and splendid character and will make a strong race.

Surprise Party.

Drexel Moore returned home from Louisville Monday where he has been working for the Louisville Gas & Electric Co., and his mother, Mrs. R. A. Haldwin gave a surprise party in honor of his return. The young folk of the town were invited in and enjoyed games, music and had a general good time. Refreshments were served to the visitors and all seemed to enjoy Drexel's return and the party given him. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Shorer, Mrs. Katherine Daniel and daughter, Ruth Randolph, Mrs. Martha D. Womack, Misses Josephine McGuire, Bonnie Franklin, Jennie Phillips, Ruth Davis, Wilma Nickell, Bonnie Franklin, Eulah Arnett, Elizabeth Cole, Besaline Perry, Evelyn Swango, Martha Oakley and Anna Nickell; Messrs. Evelyn Harlan Brown, R. B. Rankin, Dr. O. M. Oakley, Charles Henry, Fred Oakley, Owen Daniel, Robert Cole Gardner Spurlock, Lucian Reid, Frank Franklin, Roger Womack, Curtis Mathis, Prof. Nickell, Robert Elam, Olney Barker and A. Young Hovemale.

Adkins-Phillhower.

Mr. Harvey Gordon Adkins and Miss Grace Phillhower were married at the parsonage of the Church of Christ in Middletown, Ohio, Thursday, Sept. 1, Rev. W. H. Thompson, pastor of the church officiating.

The groom is a native of this place the son of Eld. J. Bruce Adkins, and a brother to Mrs. Will Wells, of West Liberty. He is a splendid young man and was one of the marines in the Chateau Therrla and other offensives that turned the Germans back. He was wounded in the service and won a Distinguished Service medal. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steward Phillhower of Middletown, and is a young lady of fine disposition and was a general favorite in her circle of acquaintances. The friends of the groom here congratulate him and wish them both the full measure of happiness.

Buy Mt. Sterling Bottling Works.

Claude Stacy, of Dan, and C. K. Stacy and Ren F. Nickell, of West Liberty, have purchased the Mt. Sterling Bottling Works and have taken possession. Mr. Claude Stacy has moved to Mt. Sterling and is in charge of the works now.

This is one of the best propositions in central Kentucky and the boys will doubtless make good with it. The change of owners will insure to the new concern practically all the patronage in this section, as all the merchants of this county know the men who are now conducting the business and their reputation as business men will insure them the business of the Morgan county merchants.

Mr. Claude Stacy was a salesman for a dry goods company up to the time he took possession and knows all the merchants throughout this section of the mountains. Mr. C. K. Stacy is cashier of the Commercial Bank here and Mr. Ren F. Nickell is the present County Court Clerk. All of them are widely and favorably known and we predict a big increase of business under the new management.

We give you a commission on subscriptions.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

To the Voters of Morgan county:

I desire to say to the voters of Morgan county that as the Republican nominee for County Judge I will make the race through. I have been over a greater portion of the county and have talked to a great many of the people and have received many assurances of support from people of both parties.

I have been a practicing lawyer for nine years and also engaged in farming and the timber and lumber business, and, as you all know, have made a reasonable success.

The time has come in the history of Morgan county when sane business principles should be applied to the management of the county's financial affairs. The county is a five million dollar corporation and should have the very best business talent in the management of the use of the public funds.

While running as the Republican nominee for this important office I realize that there is too much politics and too little good business sense used in the management of county affairs in Kentucky. In selecting our county offices, where there is no question of political policies to arise, the people should vote for the men best qualified by fitness and character to administer their affairs.

I worked my way through school and whatever I have accomplished in the way of success is due to my own efforts unaided by others, and I am a friend of the laboring man. I have been with you and have bought timber from you and most of the people of the county know me in a business way.

If elected to the office to which I aspire I pledge you that I will endeavor to apply to the business of the county the same sane business principles that I have in my own affairs. I am in favor of good roads and public improvements.

The enforcement of the law depends primarily upon the local authorities and if elected I promise that I will vigorously enforce the law and be diligent in bringing to justice the violators of the penal statutes.

I appeal to all who wish to see Morgan county a model of law enforcement and sane business administration to support me, regardless of political affiliation.

Yours very truly,
J. H. STRICKLIN.

FLAT WOODS

The Grassy Creek base ball team came down and played Flat Woods boys Saturday and the score was 8 to 3 in favor of the home boys.

Miss Carma Fugett, who has been on a vacation, returned to Middletown, Ohio, Friday.

Misses Bulah Whitl and Lillian McClure and Messrs. Scott McClure, Olie Whitl and Tom McClure, of Grassy Creek attended the ball game Saturday.

Rev. Harlan Murphy was the guest of T. M. Henry and family Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carpenter, of Elder, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Carpenter Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Lona Baker and little son, Jack L., of Middletown, Ohio, have been visiting friends and relatives here.

Reva Carpenter, of West Liberty, was visiting her uncle and aunt, D. O. Henry, on Sept. 7.

Rev. Dave May of Mt. Sterling, passed through this place Tuesday and called on some of his old friends.

James McClure spent Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Henry.

GOO GOO EYES.

GRASSY CREEK

Mrs. Matilda McClure, wife of J. C. McClure, of Grassy Creek, departed this life on the 23rd inst. of dropsy. She had been constant sufferer for years. She had been confined to her chair for more than two years day and night. She welcomed the change that gave her friends temporal and her eternal rest. Funeral services delivered by Eld. Frank Manlin. Her remains were interred in the Grassy Creek cemetery in the presence of a large crowd. She leaves a devoted husband and five children to mourn her loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nickell and Mrs. J. C. Gevelan are visiting the latter's parents at Leann.

Eld. W. L. Gevelan, who has been gone on a preaching tour for some weeks, has returned. He attended the Enterprise association on its return and reports a grand time through out the trip.

Orval Williams, of Salt Lake, who has been visiting friends on Grassy for some time, has returned home.

Eld. J. L. Johnson has gone to Ohio on a preaching tour.

Ed Buchanan and family have moved to Hazel Green. The citizens regret to give them up as they are nice and useful to the community.

Every thing seems to have quieted down since the primary which indicates satisfaction. However, there may have been unfair means used in many cases, but that is not uncommon in elections. But so long as we have good sober, honest men nominated let's not kick but stick to the nominees from Circuit Judge down to Constable.

FAIRPLAY.

Mrs. Martha D. Womack and son, Roger, who have been visiting here for the past two weeks, returned to their home at Millersburg Tuesday.

To Precinct Committees:

Precinct committees are notified that under the law it is their duty to report to the county chairman of the parties the names of those whom they recommend for election officers on or before Sept. 15. This should be done in time so that the election commissioners may appoint the election officers from the names selected.

The Band's Pie Supper.

The pie supper given for the benefit of the West Liberty brass band last Thursday night was a success from a financial standpoint. J. M. Cutler gave them the use of the West Liberty Theatre and the use of the films. There was about $30.00 gate receipts. Twenty-six pies were sold at good prices and an angel food cake for the most popular lady, brought $43.65. Miss Bonnie Franklin winning the prize easily over a number of competitors. Altogether the benefits were in the neighborhood of one hundred dollars.

"Liberty Hats."

O. F. Henry is now traveling in this territory for the Mendel-Weinstock Hat Co., of Louisville, and has one of the nicest line of hats ever shown to our merchants. O. F. is a good salesman and is building up a fine trade for his concern. Olie is a hustler and manages to see about all merchants in his territory in record time and is sending in orders in a way that must be pleasing to his employers. A good house, a good hat and a good salesman is a combination that is hard to beat and O. F. will soon have built up one of the biggest hat trades in the mountains.

The Fair at Grassy Creek.

There will be a community fair held at Grassy Creek on Oct. 8, at which there will be exhibited some fine stock and the products of the farms and the products of the boys and girls clubs. For a list of premiums see the program being distributed.

Hotel and Farm for Sale.

The Commercial Inn, a modern hotel, building just across from court house, and farm of 150 acres one mile from town. Farm has 21 acres of bottom land, good house and well water and fenced. Will sell both together or separately. Call on or address.

CURT LACY,
West Liberty, Ky.

Soil Specialist.

There will be a soil specialist at the court house in West Liberty to speak on the subject of river crops. Farmers will do well to come out and hear him.

J. H. Tipton, of Sellers, was in town Saturday on business and called in and renewed his subscription.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Mrs. W. C. Lacy is very sick this week.

O. B. Arnett is attending the Latoula meeting this week.

John Short, of Index, was pleasant caller at the Courier office Tuesday.

The stork visited the home of Ever Mathis on Sept. 6, and left a fine girl.

Misses Cynthia Day and Elizabeth Caskey, of Lenox, were shopping in town Friday and Saturday.

Misses Lela and Iva Lewis, of Wrigley, visited Miss Mattie Moore and attended the Institute last week.

Masters Russell, Jay and Jahram Burton returned Saturday from a visit to relatives in Indiana.

H. L. Henry, of Index, and J. H. P. Oney, of town, were in Ashland on business last week.

Clayton Cullahan, who has been visiting in town for some time, returned to school at Berea Monday.

Thomas Day, of Elk Fork, was in town Tuesday on business and called in and subscribed for the Courier.

Miss Clara Carpenter, who has been ill with typhoid the past three weeks, is said to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Blair and son, William Allan, returned Saturday from a visit to Mr. Blair's sister, Mrs. S. M. Nickell, of Lexington.

John F. Amburn, of Pekin, was in town on business Wednesday and called in and subscribed for the Courier.

Mrs. R. M. Oakley returned Monday from Martinsville, Ind., where she has been taking treatment for rheumatism, and is very much improved in health.

Mrs. Katherine Selts Daniel and the daughter, Ruth, who have been visiting here for the past week, left for their home at Cadetsburg Thursday.

Drexel Moore, who has been working for the Louisville Gas & Electric Co. at Louisville, for some time, has returned home and will enter school here.

Henry Elam, of Magoffin, who has been visiting his son at Morehead and daughter at Ashland, returned Saturday and was the guest of C. P. Henry while here.

Chas. E. Duff, Democratic nominee for Sheriff of Montgomery county, and Judge Anderson, of Camargo, were in the county last week buying cattle. They bought about 75 head.

Mrs. Isabel Duffield, a very attractive lady of Williamsport, Pa., is visiting Mr. Harry W. Donaghy at this place. Dame Rumor has it that sometime this autumn wedding bells will ring and that Mrs. Duffield will become Mr. Donaghy's bride.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Stacy on August 31 and left a young lady visitor—Miss Helen Cortis can still make correct change but we notice that banking hours are shorter and he hurries home sooner.

Floyd Arnett left Monday for Cincinnati to consult a specialist in regard to his eyes. For more than a month his eyes have been giving him trouble and he sought the aid of a specialist to try to secure relief.

H. G. Arnett left Monday for Harpersville, Okla., where he will have charge of the commercial and business department of the high school at that place. Garland served as principal of the business department of that school two years ago and his record this year shows that he made good.

North McGuire, of Caney, was in town Tuesday on business. He came in and said that the Courier that his grand father had subscribed for had been coming to his son since his death, their initials being the same, and paid up and renewed the subscription. He wanted it to still come on.

Mrs. C. P. Henry and daughter, Miss Leona, went last Wednesday to Louisville, to consult a specialist for Miss Leona, who has been ill for some months. The specialist said that her main trouble was from her eyes and tonsils and that with care she would easily recover. This will be good news to the many friends of Miss Leona, who were anxious about her health.

Capt. Jas. I. Holton, of Hazel Green, was in town Wednesday and Thursday and says there is no dissatisfaction over the primary in Wolfe and that the county will roll up a big majority for all the Democratic ticket.

Dr. C. C. Burton reports the following births of last week: To Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cantrell, of near town, Sept. 5, a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pratt, of White Oak, Sept. 7, a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. Mack Whitl, of near town, Sept. 7, a boy.

G. M. Bellamy has sold his interest in the business of W. G. Blair & Co., to W. G. and Luther Blair. George was suffering with rheumatism and could not keep on his feet to do the work. He will take a rest for awhile to recuperate.

Teachers who want to add to their salaries can earn quite a sum by soliciting subscriptions for the Courier on the commission basis. Write to us for terms.

Dr. W. L. Gevelan, of Grassy Creek was in town Tuesday and called the Courier office and renewed his subscription. He is just back from attending Enterprise Association at Gretna.

Miss Mattie Dehart, of Middletown, Ohio, who has been visiting in town for some weeks, returned home Saturday.

Born to the wife of John Elam, of the county, on Sept. 6, a 12½ pound girl.

H. M. Havens, of Greear, was in town on business Wednesday and called in and subscribed for the Courier.

G. C. Allen in Town.

G. C. Allen, Democratic nominee for Commonwealth's Attorney, of Lee City, was in town a few days this week. He says that prospects for his election are very encouraging.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at the office of the County Road Engineer of Morgan county in the court house in the town of West Liberty until 1 o'clock P. M. ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"We are making another reduction in the price of Ford cars and the Ford truck, effective Sept. 2. The new prices average $70.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit are now as follows:

	New Price	Old Price	Amt. reduction
Chassis	$295	$345	$50
Runabout	325	370	45
Touring Car *	355	415	60
Truck	445	495	50
Coupe	595	695	100
Sedan	660	750	100

*Without Starter.

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On September 22, 1920, the price of the Ford touring car was reduced from $575 to $440; June 7th to $415, and now to $355, making total reductions in this type of $220, or 38 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford sedan was $975; today it lists at $660 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of every known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one big thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,696. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total of the four months being 463,074, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June this year, with an output of 117,247 was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for salesmen. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a very good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices! See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without one any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL.

The Morgan County High School opened for the fall session Monday. A splendid corps of teachers is in charge and the outlook is good for one of the most successful terms in the history of the school.

The citizens of the county should take advantage of the opportunity the school offers and send their children so that they will be prepared to take charge of the rural schools of the county. It now requires high school training to obtain a certificate to teach and that high school training can be obtained at home much cheaper than elsewhere.

The citizens of the town should also realize that the success of the school means much to them and should back the efforts of the school management to the limit. Until more ample dormitory accommodations can be had every home that can do so should let rooms to the students from the country, and we are informed that such arrangements have been made that will insure the accommodation of all the students from the country who wish to attend.

Let's all get behind the school and make its success this year the greatest in its history.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

A few weeks ago we sent out statements to those of our subscribers who were in arrears for their subscriptions, and quite a number responded promptly and a great many have not responded. We are urgently in need of the money due us on subscription and we trust that we will not have to send out another statement to those who have not remitted. In the purchase of the interest of Mr. Elam we had to transfer to him the bulk of the accounts due for advertising and job work and while the advertising and job patronage of the business is good and will in a short time be bringing in ample returns, these accounts will not be due for some time and we depend upon the subscriptions and current job printing for running expenses.

The little amount you owe on subscription by itself does not amount to much, but if you and several hundred others each owing small amounts, withhold the payment it amounts to much to us. Will you not sit down right now and remit the small amount you owe so that we will not be embarrassed in the management of the business while we are waiting for the advertising bills to become due?

Our advertising earnings run from $75 to $100 a week, but they are not collectable for some time yet and we are urging that those of you who are in arrears on subscription send in the amount you owe at once.

THE COMING CAMPAIGN.

The Courier would suggest that the Democratic nominees for the various offices get together and organize for the coming campaign. It is time to select the campaign chairman to get ready for battle.

This is one year of all years that Democrats should stand united and in solid phalanx against the opposition. This election will decide the political control of the State for years to come, and it is no time for differences among Democrats. If there was ever a time in the history of the party when every Democrat should vote the ticket it is this year. Whether Morgan county remains a separate legislative district, whether we remain in a Democratic Senatorial, Judicial and Congressional district, depends largely upon the way the Democrats of the county vote this fall.

Petty differences should be laid aside and all should work for the success of the whole ticket this fall. Special efforts will be made by the Republicans to get control of the Legislature and all things else will be subordinated to that end. Democrats should realize that this year, of all years, they should be Democratic.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Young Carlyle Witherton Dale, or "Bill Dale," as he is called by his friends, is a wealthy coal operator, John K. Dale, arrives at the Halfway Switch, in eastern Tennessee, abandoning a life of idle ease and incidentally a life of dissipation. He is determined to make his own way in life. He meets "Babe" Littleford, a cynical mountaineer girl. "By" Heck, a character of the hills, takes him to John Moreland's home. Moreland's chief aim is to "clan," which has an old feud with the Littlefords. He tells Dale of the killing of his brother, David Moreland, years ago, owner of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlyle. Moreland's description of "Carlyle" causes Dale to believe the man was his father.

CHAPTER II.—Dale arranges to make his home with the Moreland family, for whom he entertains a deep respect.

CHAPTER III.—Talking with "Babe" Littleford next day, Dale is ordered by "Black Adam" Ball, bully of the district, to leave "his girl" alone. Dale replies spiritedly, and they fight. Dale whiles the bully, though badly used up. He arranges with John Moreland to develop Dale's coal deposits. Ben Littleford sends a challenge to John Moreland to meet him with his followers next day, in battle. Moreland agrees.

CHAPTER IV.—During the night all the guns belonging to the Littlefords and the Morelands mysteriously disappear.

CHAPTER V.—Dale arranges to go to Cincinnati to secure money for the mining of the coal. The two clans find their weapons, which the women had hidden, and link up for battle. "Babe," in an effort to stop the fighting, crosses to the Moreland side of the river, and is accidentally shot by her father and seriously wounded.

CHAPTER VI.

Back Home.

Every mother's son of the feudists was numbered in the party that fled across David Moreland's mountain to intercept the next south-bound train. The old enmity was for the time being forgotten. Members of one clan rubbed elbows with members of the other clan, and thought nothing of it. John Moreland himself carried one end of the crude litter that held the limp form of Babe Littleford; Bill Dale carried the other end.

Close behind the litter walked Babe's father, seeming old and broken with remorse for the thing he had done. The grief of Ben Littleford was touching now, and Dale was a little sorry that he had spoken so bitterly to him. They reached the Halfway switch ten minutes before the arrival of the fast mail. A short passenger train was on the long siding, waiting for the south bound to pass. Dale gave his end of the litter to Caleb Moreland, and strode up to the locomotive. The engineer sat quietly smoking in his cab.

Dale wanted the fast mail stopped, and gave his reasons.

The engineer smoked and considered. It was against rules. Dale swore at rules. The engineer said he would see the conductor. He did, and the conductor stepped to the ground and began to consider.

"Better put her on my train," he said finally, "and take her to Barton's station. There's a good doctor at Barton's."

"But this is a case for a surgeon!" impatiently interrupted Bill Dale.

They disagreed. The old trainman was a close friend of the doctor at Barton's station. What was the difference between a doctor and a surgeon, anyway?

Dale became angry. "You'll stop the fast mail for us," he snapped, "or we'll take your red flag and hold her up long enough to put the girl aboard, and you've got only half a second to decide which!"

The conductor was obstinate. The mountain men were too hot-headed to bear with him longer. The position of a dozen rifles underwent a sudden change. The conductor immediately went pale and mentioned the law—but he agreed to stop the southbound.

As he ordered his flagman up the tracks, the sound of the fast train's whistle came to their ears.

The fier came to a screeching halt with sparks streaming from its wheels. Bill Dale and John Moreland passed the litter and its burden into the baggage car and followed it hastily, and Ben Littleford climbed in after them. John Moreland leaned out of the doorway and ordered his son Luke to pass him his rifle, and Luke obeyed promptly.

There was a shriek from the whistle, and the brakes were released; the train began to gather momentum. A baggage man approached John Moreland and asked why the rifle. Moreland half closed one keen gray eye and patted the walnut stock of his repeater.

"Oh, I just brought it along to see at everybody has a straight deal," he drawled—"go on about your business, mister."

The baggage man went about his business. The conductor of the fast train was very unlike the conductor of the north-bound. When he had learned something of the circumstances, he fastidiously that Dale had done exactly the right thing. He would see whether there was a doctor aboard.

Within five more minutes he returned in company with an elderly man wearing a pointed beard and using glasses.

"Doctor McKenzie," he said politely; "Mr. —"

"Tule." The two nodded, and the physician knelt beside the litter, which had been placed with its ends on boxes to allow the center to swing free. He made us thorough an examination as was possible under the conditions, then arose and stood looking down upon the young woman with something like admiration in his sober, professional eyes.

"Perfect physique," he said as though to himself. . . . "She will have to undergo an operation," he told Dale. "The bone there is broken in slightly, making a compression; she will doubtless be unconscious until the pressure is relieved. But she has few chances for a quick and entire recovery, with a good surgeon on the job, so there's not much ground for worry."

"Perfect Physique," He Said, as Though to Himself.

Dale was glad. They were all glad. Ben Littleford laughed nervously in his sudden joy. He went down to his knees beside his daughter, took up one of her limp hands and stroked it in a way that was pitiful.

When he arose he spoke cordially to Moreland. But Moreland didn't reply. He still looked upon his old enemy with contempt.

Doctor McKenzie was leaving the train at the next town of importance, and he would wire Doctor Braemer to meet them with an ambulance, if Dale wished.

"If you please," said Dale. They reached the city shortly before midnight, and were promptly met by the surgeon. Braemer took charge of the patient, put her into his ambulance and hurried her to his private hospital. Bill Dale and the two clan chiefs followed in an automobile. The billmen had never before seen an automobile; but they asked no questions about it, and the only word of comment was this, from John Moreland: "I don't like the smell."

Everything had been made ready for the operation, and Dale received surgical aid without delay.

The two mountaineers and Dale waited in another room. Dale had induced John Moreland to unload his rifle, both chamber and magazine. Babe's father pined the door anxiously now and then. Moreland sat like a stone, with his empty rifle between his knees, and watched his old enemy quiver.

It seemed a long time before Braemer came to them and told them succinctly that it was all over and that the girl was then coming from under the effects of the ether. She would be all right soon, he was reasonably certain. No, they'd better not see her just then, but perhaps they could see her at some time during the afternoon of the following day.

Dale escorted his two companions to a modest hotel and then put them in a room that had but one bed; by thus throwing them together in a strange land, he hoped to do something toward making them friends. Then Dale went to another room, undressed and went to bed.

It may be noted, parenthetically as it were, that John Moreland and Ben Littleford quickly reached a wordless agreement not to sleep together—they divided the pillows and thence evenly, tore the odd coverlet exactly in half, and slept on the floor.

When Dale went down to the lobby the following morning an alert-eyed young fellow sprang from a chair and hustled up to him.

"By George, Bobby!" Dale exclaimed, as they began to shake hands. "How did you know I was here, anyway? Your hounded nose for news, eh?"

"Guiltily," smiled McLaurin. "I got word last night that a mountain girl had been brought to Braemer's, accidentally shot, and I smelled a feud; so I hurried over to get the story. You had just left, and Braemer's didn't know much about it. It was too soon after the operation," they said, for her to see me; they said of the nurses whispered to me that you had brought her, and said that I would find you here. So here I am, Bill, and I want the story. I'll phone it in, and then I'll give you some news."

"The story mustn't be published, Bobby," Dale replied. "For one reason, there is a feud; and if the law knew, it might take a hand—you see, I think there is a better way to take care of that feud. And I am of the opinion that the girl wouldn't like the publicity. Suppose you forget all about it, Bobby."

If McLaurin was disappointed, he kept it well to himself.

"They said she was handsome, a sort of primitive Venus," he winked. "Is there a romance connected, Bill?"

"Not yet," smiled Dale.

"But soon?"

"Who can tell?" Dale shrugged a little. "Tell me the news."

"All right," McLaurin drew his friend toward a pair of empty chairs. "I married Patricia Clavering the day before yesterday. We—"

"Hullo! Go on."

"We were married in an automobile, with her father and 'poor dear Harry' chasing us like wildfire in another car. Yesterday we went to housekeeping in a cute little suburban bungalow, furniture on the installment plan. Her people won't even look at us, Bill! But do we care? Bill Dale, I ask you, old dear, do I seem to be worrying? Honest, I'm so happy I'm afraid something is going to happen to me. I'm to have a lift in salary soon, and we won't be long in paying for the furniture; and when that's done, we'll buy the bungalow."

"And I'm informing you now, old savage," he continued, "that you're having dinner with us this evening. You'll find it pleasant. We do as we please, you see. If you like, you may stir your coffee with your finger, eat with your knife, reach clean across the table, and pick your teeth with your fork. You can eat with your hat on, and you may have your dessert first. You can have an extra chair for your feet, and you can go to sleep at the table. I don't fail us. I've wanted to thank you for 'casting her aside' at the altar."

Dale laughed boyishly. McLaurin went on:

"There's more news. Your father has been trying hard to find you. He sent a man to Atlanta to look for you. He told me he'd give me a house and lot if I'd find you—and if there was a little more of the highway robber in me, I'd call his hand!"

"And mother—have you seen her?" Dale muttered.

"I've seen her twice since the near-wedding."

"Did she have anything to say about me? Tell me the whole truth, Bobby. I can take it, old man. I'm big enough."

McLaurin frowned. "Since you've asked me, Bill, your mother—I overheard her telling your father that she would never forgive you for the 'utterly shameless, disgraceful scene' you made in church."

"I see," said Dale. He brightened and went on, "As soon as I can get my two friends down to the dining room, Bobby, you're going with me to father. We're going to claim that house and lot for you."

"For Patricia's sake, I've a thundering big notion to take you up," laughed McLaurin. "Your dad would never miss it."

"That's all—take me up for Pat's sake," said Dale, rising. "You'd be foolish if you didn't. You should be willing to do anything, almost, for Pat. She's a jewel, Bobby."

Half an hour later they caught a passing car that soon carried them to a palace of granite and stone and cream-colored brick—the home of the old coal king, John K. Dale.

At the wide front gateway young Dale drew back.

"Bring father out here," he said in a low voice. "Frou what you told me, I guess mother wouldn't want me to come in. But you can find out about that—"

He hoped his mother would want to see him. While she had never seemed to care for him as other mothers care for their boys; while she hadn't been quite so dear to him as she might have been—

"And if she wants to see me, Bobby, let me know."

McLaurin smiled a somewhat worried smile, and went up to the front door. A moment later he was shown in. Yet another moment, and John K. Dale, his florid face beaming with gladness, hastened out to the gateway. Young Dale was instantly touched by his father's new attitude toward him; then he remembered the long night of David Moreland's people, and he stiffened a little and drew back a pace.

"You're come home to stay, haven't you, Chrysler?" said the older man, and his voice was filled with pleading. "What you did is all right; we'll never mention it again. You'll stay, won't you, Carlyle, my boy?"

"No," answered the son, a trifle coldly in spite of himself. "I've spent all the idle, useless years I'll ever spend. I'm getting ready to develop the coal in David Moreland's mountain."

"David—Moreland's—mountain!"

The retired coal magnate breathed the three words in a husky tone. He put forth a hand and rested it against one of the huge stone gateposts, as though to steady himself, and some of the color went from his face.

"You say David Moreland's mountain, Chrysler? Jerkily."

"Yes."

"And you—you learned about David Moreland?"

"Yes," Bill Dale folded his arms and stood there looking at his father with eyes that accused.

"You know who killed him?" old Dale muttered.

"I do, and it was a shame—a black shame."

"Yes, it was a shame. Nobody knows that half so well as I know it," said John K. Dale. His mouth quivered. He looked downward, looked up again.

"Now, you can never say or think worse things about me than I have said and thought about myself—because of that."

Dale the younger glanced toward the house. Robert McLaurin was coming slowly down the veranda steps. Mrs. Dale was nowhere in sight. She didn't want to see her son; she didn't even want to see her husband. Bill Dale read it all in his father's downcast countenance, and it was somehow a great disappointment.

"You'll need money if you're going to develop that coal property," Dale the elder was saying. "You haven't any money, and those mountain folk haven't any. I'll give you all that's needed. I'll send you mining machinery, and expert mining men; I'll—"

"You needn't," broke in the embittered Bill Dale. "I can get the neces-

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield, Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. My doctor said I was getting along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments. For sale everywhere.
